Week 6 / Code breaking / Problem menu

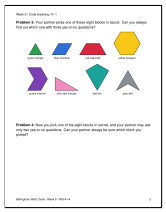

for adults: pick, then print

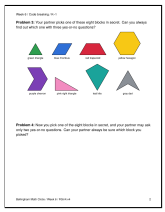

Four blocks: two yes-or-no questions?
K–1 P1
first route

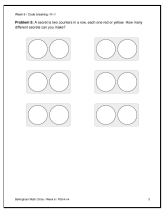

Eight blocks: "Is it this one?"
K–1 P2
first route

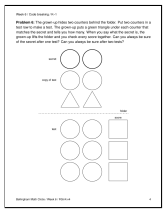

Eight blocks: three yes-or-no questions?
K–1 P3
first route

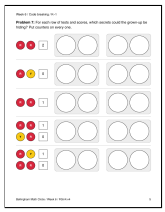

Can two questions find one of eight?
K–1 P4
return route

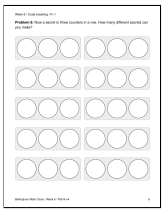

How many two-counter secrets?
K–1 P5
first route

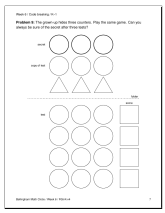

The two-counter code game with the grown-up
K–1 P6
first route

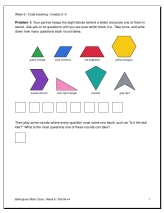

Which secrets fit these scores?
K–1 P7
return route

How many three-counter secrets?
K–1 P8
return route

The three-counter game: three tests?
K–1 P9
return route

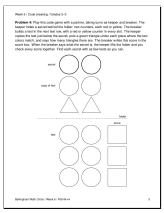

Guess my block, then one block per question
Grades 2–3 P1
first route

Questions that always work in three
Grades 2–3 P2
first route

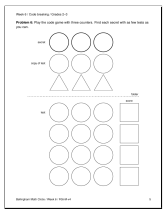

Can two questions always be enough?
Grades 2–3 P3
first route

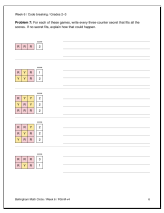

The two-counter code game
Grades 2–3 P4
first route

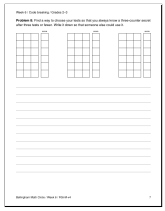

One test or two for two counters?
Grades 2–3 P5
first route

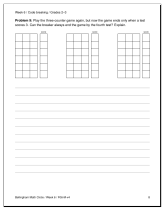

The three-counter code game
Grades 2–3 P6
first route

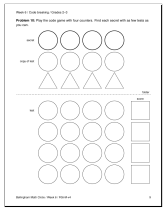

Which three-counter secrets fit?
Grades 2–3 P7
first route

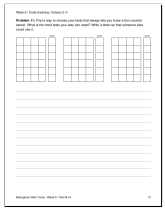

A method for three counters in three tests
Grades 2–3 P8
return route

Ending on a full score
Grades 2–3 P9
return route

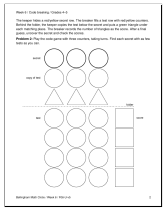

The four-counter code game
Grades 2–3 P10
return route

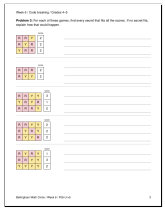

A method for four counters
Grades 2–3 P11
return route

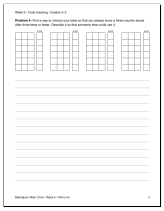

A number from 1 to 16, then 1 to 20
Grades 4–5 P1
first route

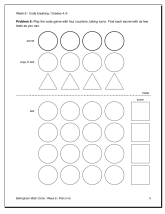

The three-counter code game
Grades 4–5 P2
first route

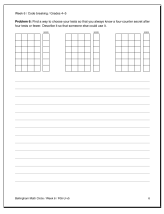

Which secrets fit these scores?
Grades 4–5 P3
first route

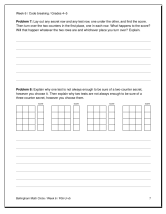

A method for three counters in three tests
Grades 4–5 P4
first route

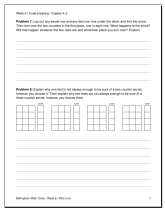

The four-counter code game
Grades 4–5 P5
first route

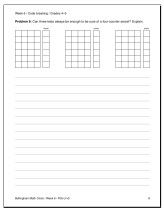

A method for four counters in four tests
Grades 4–5 P6
first route

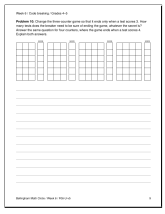

Turn over both counters in one place
Grades 4–5 P7
return route

Why one or two tests are not enough
Grades 4–5 P8
return route

Three tests for four counters?
Grades 4–5 P9
return route

Ending on a full score
Grades 4–5 P10
return route